“With the current abundance of tenancies available with an existing fit-out, value can be achieved by careful selection of proposed new office space. Quality built works and finishes utilised in these tenancies can ensure effective re-use of the fit-out. This not only saves money but the waste generated by the demolition process.

For this software group, the relocation to a CBD tenancy proved to be extremely good value. As the creator of the previous fit-out, Trojan Horse Interiors were the obvious choice to assist this new client in making the very most of what was already there, plan the necessary alterations and apply their unique corporate branding.

Portions of existing partitioning was removed, new sections installed and dynamic vinyl graphics applied to internal meeting and training rooms. New workstations have been positioned against the exterior glazing allowing light to all staff while storage items also include the colour branding.

From functional, environmental and aesthetic perspectives, this rejuvenating process has succeeded in creating a space that appears purpose built for its new inhabitants will now continue to provide ongoing service.”
